ACACIA CLINIC

Our Philosophy

People suffer emotionally in many ways. They demonstrate feelings, thoughts and behaviors in different and unique ways. Occasional problems are not cause for alarm, but when people of any age show increased levels of unhappiness, anger, aggression or ongoing difficulty in getting along with others, they may need help. Dramatic personality changes or prolonged negative moods and behaviors often are indicative of a need for assistance to achieve new coping and problem-solving skills.

Solutions vary for different people, but mental health treatment services can make a difference. Acacia's services are based on respect, and intended to empower clients and their families.

Acacia Clinic supports diversity in lifestyles and cultures. We promote the client's right to self-determination and participation in goal-setting to develop a treatment plan. The therapeutic process assists clients in identifying problems and seeking options to resolve psychological, medical, educational and spiritual issues. We offer clients tools and resources for coping and solving problems in life. We integrate solution-focused, cognitive-behavioral and bio-psycho-social approaches for healing and recovery.
